Featuring Living Legend

Dr. Maya Angelou

Dr. Maya Angelou is one of the most renowned and influential voices of our time. Angelou is a celebrated poet, memoirist, novelist, educator, producer, actress, historian, filmmaker, and civil rights activist. Dr. Angelou’s list of published work includes 30 best-selling titles. Her classic autobiography, I Know Why the Caged Bird Sings, has garnered international acclaim for over 40 years. Dr. Angelou has received over 30 honorary degrees and is the Reynolds Professor of American Studies at Wake Forest University.

As we recognize the anniversaries of the Emancipation Proclamation and the March on Washington, Dr. Angelou’s talk will weave song, poetry, and messages that will recognize the growth of this nation, and hopefully, stir souls, heal hearts, and liberate minds to do more.

Friday, February 22

Bob Carpenter Center

University of Delaware

7:00 pm; Doors open at 6:30 pm

Free - UD Students w/valid UD ID (Limit 1)

$5 - UD Faculty & Staff w/valid UD ID (Limit 2)

$10 - General Public

$15 – At the Door (if available)

Books will only be available for purchase (no book signing).

Tickets are available now at UD Box Offices for UD faculty/staff/students.

Tickets are available at UD Box Offices & Ticketmaster Outlets for the general public beginning on February 13.

EVERYONE MUST HAVE A TICKET!

For ticket information, call UD Box Offices at (302) 831-4012.

For general information, call the Center for Black Culture at (302) 831-2991.

Sponsors: Center for Black Culture, Cultural Programming Advisory Board, Office of Student Life, Office of Residence Life, University Student Centers, Office of Equity and Inclusion, Department of English, Department of Theatre, Department of Black American Studies