Five minute oral presentations on your Hilfbar application design one week from today.

Time limit will be strictly enforced so that each group may present within the time permitted.

The following rubric will be used to assess presentations.

http://www.phschool.com/professional_development/assessment/rub_oral_presentation.html

In your presentation, focus on the user interface and functionality. Your audience should be "users" of the application: faculty members and students using the application. Focus on the advantages of your design from that standpoint.

It is reasonable for you to review the designs of other groups and compare/contrast your solution with theirs if you wish; or you can just focus on the good features of your own design. That choice is up to you.

Today, choose who will present; write the name of the person on the chalkboard. Or you can do a tag team presentation with multiple folks, but be advised: 5 minutes goes by VERY QUICKLY. It is very important to practice and time your presentation.