The President Report That One Is Needed—Destruction of Needful Wood.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 6.—This subject is a part of a larger issue, and that issue should be a national issue. The President made a very important appeal, which the House should not fail to heed. The President made a very important appeal, which the House should not fail to heed.

The destruction of the trees is a matter of great importance. The President made a very important appeal, which the House should not fail to heed.

The President made a very important appeal, which the House should not fail to heed.

The President made a very important appeal, which the House should not fail to heed.

The President made a very important appeal, which the House should not fail to heed.

The President made a very important appeal, which the House should not fail to heed.

The President made a very important appeal, which the House should not fail to heed.

The President made a very important appeal, which the House should not fail to heed.

The President made a very important appeal, which the House should not fail to heed.

The President made a very important appeal, which the House should not fail to heed.

The President made a very important appeal, which the House should not fail to heed.

The President made a very important appeal, which the House should not fail to heed.

The President made a very important appeal, which the House should not fail to heed.

The President made a very important appeal, which the House should not fail to heed.