From the Chair

July 4th is a special and loved holiday because of the seminal event it celebrates and the patriotic feelings it generates in us. It is also a day famous for beaches, cook-outs and reunions. I remember the July 4ths when my children were young and we were living in Vienna, Va. The day began with relay races among teams representing swim clubs in the area. It was presided over by the Mayor and featured many friendly rivalries among the participants. The celebration moved to the large field that stretched between the Town Hall and the Community Center where, on this day, the field had a dunking booth, food trucks and vendors of all sorts. Then home to our pool where lots of splashing around cooled everyone off and dinner from the grill. Later, we went back to the Town Hall, for a fireworks display that was 15 minutes of fun, without the need to go to Washington, D.C. or anywhere else. No wonder I adopted July 4th as my favorite holiday.

Things change. The kids are adults. (My oldest is now a grandfather.) An even bigger change was moving to coastal Sussex County which is the destination of increasingly large numbers of tourists, many of whom travel in herds.

So much for the days of yore when summer just flew by causing many to believe that after July 4th summer would soon be over.

Labor Day is now my favorite holiday!

It’s exciting to be working on the July issue of the “The Tides” and discussing the fall semester. The first thing we need to talk about is money. You have, I’m sure, noticed that fees have increased. We ended the fiscal year on June 30, $20,000 in the hole (break-even is the goal). We covered the deficit by transferring money from other accounts into the operating account, a practice we can’t sustain. Our calculations tell us that the new fees should make us solvent for the next two years. Even with the new fees we are still the lowest cost comparable program in the area, 10% below the esteemed Temple University, Anna’s alma mater, the next lowest cost program. This fee increase may cause difficulty for some. Please take advantage of our Scholarship program. Information about it is in the catalog.

Dick Kaufman, a long time instructor and a wonderful guy, is leaving the area to live near family. Good luck, Dick! We will miss you. And the legendary Win Mroz who has been involved with the program since its 1989 inception, has decided to slow down. He has faithfully commuted from the Dover area all these years but plans to do so less often now, though I doubt that his loyal band of German students will let him off the hook entirely. Thank you, Win, for the many classes you’ve taught and the smiles your puckish humor has brought. A seasonal aside, Win taught a class about Benjamin Franklin which was fascinating from a historical perspective and hilarious when he appeared, knickers and bald dome – really capturing the Franklin persona. An historian and a hoot! Thanks, Win.

I’ve been looking through the new catalog. It’s very impressive – more course offerings than ever before. Many are new courses that are terrific and varied. For fun, try Pete Feeney’s course on adult coloring books or Paul Collins’ Crime and Humor, the fiction of Donald Westlake. Thought provoking courses abound: Joan Paulson’s classes on the federal budget and hard economic choices are among them. Health subjects of interest include Yuan Lin’s examination of traditional Chinese medicine Vis-a-Vis modern science; and the many attractive literature offerings include Jan Feidel’s course on the poetry of John Keats. Of course, most of the long established favorites are back. It’s going to be a great semester!

The Ocean View program continues to grow. A class is offered every period on Monday and Wednesday. We can still add classes on those days and could add a day. The Indian River Bridge is scenic and safe. The inlet should not be a barrier for those of us focused on the Lewes program. Make a fun day of it. Take a class and have lunch – or vice versa.

As the new semester begins, we need to start thinking about the spring program. To distribute catalogs by mid-December, we must begin the process by soliciting course proposals in September. Please begin thinking what you might offer. And don’t forget Ocean View.

Finally I need to stress to you the need for parking courtesy. Please observe the law by not parking on yellow lines, near hydrants or in front of driveways. Because of complaints from the neighbors last year, we had a meeting followed up by correspondence with Mayor Becker. We promised to stress this matter with the membership. We also told the City to write tickets if they observed violations.

Looking forward to seeing you in September—when it finally gets here.

A Message from Anna

Dear Osher Family,

I cannot thank you enough for the outpouring of emails, cards, flowers, support and prayers during my recovery. For those who do not know I broke my neck and had to miss my long planned trip to Europe. Good thing I have a hard head or the situation could have been much worse. Please continue to pray for my healing. I am overall in good spirits and am improving a bit each day. The hardest part is staying still (as you can imagine). I hope to see you all back at Osher soon. I appreciate each of you and thanks for helping around the office when asked.

Thanks again,
Anna

NEW YORK!!NEW YORK!!
Our thirteenth trip to Manhattan, April 26—29, was another successful one. Weather was ideal for those who took the architecture boat tour around Manhattan, walking tours of Broadway, or just people watching. A few were fortunate to get tickets for Hamilton. Some of our people even took advantage of the suspended rope walkway over the shark exhibit at Adventure Aquarium. It sure was a fun experience! We look forward to next year's trip back to the Big Apple. We'll keep you posted as to dates. Enjoy your summer.

OPERA DELAWARE

Library Notes

The classes that I took during the summer session were thought provoking and inspirational. Learning about the Electoral College has prepared me for the possible chaos of the 2016 elections. Jon Newsom's artistic presentation of composers and art was simply awesome. And John McClenehen's class “What is a poem anyway?” led our group through a fascinating discussion and revelation of the poets among us.

John has generously donated three of his books to our library, and I hope you will take some time to enjoy them. Also, Mr. McClenehen will be offering a class this fall on Walt Whitman. The library also added books on stained glass techniques, watercolor painting, a manual on the use of an iPhone, a biography of Pope John Paul, and several history books. Look for the list that is posted on the bulletin board outside the library for the latest acquisitions.

If you checked out books during the spring or summer semester, please return them before the fall semester so they will be available for other scholars at OSHER.

Salty Brine’s Seaside Chat

Kitchen Kapers XXVIII Serves Luscious Summer Tastes

AHOY, Osher shipmates! Salty decided to take shore leave and proceed over land to drop in at the Edgewater Estates home of Bernie and Dolores Fiegel for their June, 2016, Kitchen Kapers XXVIII – “Summer Tastes From The Kitchen And The Grill.” Boy did I pick the right day to show up, the menu for the day was grilled mahi-mahi marinated in a mixture of lemon juice, extra virgin olive oil, paprika, crushed garlic, salt and freshly ground black pepper; also on the menu was eastern shore peach, red pepper, scallion, arugula, lemon juice, fresh oregano, jalapeno, and garlic with salt to taste salsa; there was more on the menu - orzo with fresh thyme, chives, parsley, scallions, oregano, mint, extra virgin olive oil, sea salt, and freshly ground black pepper to taste. The arugula, chives, parsley, mint, thyme, oregano were all from the Fiegels’ herb garden. Wines were Gallo (CA) hearty burgundy – ah! memories as it was first introduced to all of us winos around 1964/65 - and Corbett Canyon (CA) pinot grigio… but what was the-best-of-the-best for me was they asked me to join them, participate, and stay for lunch; well I radioed the OLLI Queen and informed the duty officer I would not be back for lunch, anyway the Queen was in good hands with those on duty; so with a big smile on my face I said “yes sir, yes ma’am, and joined in with the class to prepare what turned out to be a simply luscious lunch – the mess hall was the screened porch that overlooks a lush green yard that was dotted with many colorful flowers and the weather cooperated with temps in the mid-seventies, I was in seventh heaven, salivating, and couldn’t wait to sit down to lunch…and as the Kitchen Kapers members say “look at it as eating your weekly exam.”

Salty salutes the Fiegels and the class members for allowing me the opportunity to participate in a Kitchen Kapers class…plenty of conversation, camaraderie, much chopping, plenty of prep work, mixing, measuring, grilling, and all orchestrated by the twofigs; can’t wait for them to give me another invite...

Anchors away, yours truly, Salty Brine, Captain, OLLI Queen!
