• Today’s Topic: Service Methods

Defining Service
• How we present the meal to the guests...
• Type of service is usually determined by several factors such as: Menu, Skill & Training Levels, Ambience, & MARKET

STYLES OF SERVICE:
• American
• French Service
• Gueridon/Voiture
• Butler
• Buffet
• Counter/Bar
• Cafeteria
• Note: American, French, Russian and English are main styles
American Style or Plate Service

- Most common style of service
- Production employees portion food onto service plates
- Server taking the order usually is responsible for pickup
- Runner systems or team systems are the exceptions
- What are the advantages/disadvantages of team-based systems?

Basic Feature of American Style Service

- Tables pre-set with B&B plates H20 and wine glasses, napery, flatware, some high-end operations will have a cover plate.
- Products are placed on a tray or arms and carried into dining room, set on "trayjack". Plate covers are often used.
- Service Rules: Solids served from left, liquids from right side. Soiled dishes are cleared from right, along with used flatware.

Advantages of American Style Service

- Presentation quality rests with the chef
- Presentation is more consistent
- Fastest style of service
- Allows operators to utilize service staff with a lower level of skills and training
- Lower capital costs. Why is this?
Disadvantages of American Style Service

- Dining loses some of the flair and elegance offered by more formal styles
- More difficult to modify portion sizes to meet specific guests needs
- Differentiation must be achieved through service quality v. method
- Customer’s perception of value may change in higher-priced operations

French Style or Cart Service

- Meals are prepared tableside by servers using service carts. In France this is known as Russian service!
- Becoming scarce due to high labor costs and lack of skilled staff
- Service style is higher cost due to several factors:
  - Requires more dining room space due to cart size
  - Higher capital costs due to serving and prep equipment requirements
  - Operating costs higher: need more staff, more training, higher wage rates

Russian Style/Platter Service

- Used more frequently in banquets
- In France known as French or silver service!
- Food prepared/pre-cut in kitchen and arranged on silver platters
- Utilizes a team approach, one server carries entrée, another the starch. Food is presented, then plated and served tableside.
- Platters held in left hand as food is transferred to plate by “frenching” with a fork and spoon in right hand
Russian Style/Platter Service: Considerations

- Faster and less costly than cart service
- Need to ensure each guest receives an adequate portion
- Requires skilled staff, teamwork and coordination play a big role
- Increases the overall meal time due to number of steps involved
- Food cost can be higher than meals served with American Style service

Butler Style Service

- Service style same as Russian, except guest serves him/herself from the platter held by the server
- This is an offshoot of private club service and the historical use of servants (butlers) during the first half of the century
- What are the advantages of this?
- What problems can this style service cause?

English or Family Style Service

- Food is brought to table on platters or in bowls, host/guest passes food and may even carve meat items
- What kinds of events or types of restaurants would this be appropriate for?
- What are the advantages of this?
- What problems can this style of service cause?
Other Styles Of Service

- Buffets
- Cafeterias
- Counter/Bar Service
- Hybrid Styles
