

State Self-Assessment

We asked for updates and input in the following areas:

- The impact of Y2K on State and Local governments
- Status of State and local efforts to fix Y2K problems
- Funding for Y2K fixes
- Analysis of overall readiness at the state and local level
- Contingency planning efforts underway
- Identification of needed guidance
- Likely impacts of Y2K in 2000

Seven Major Problem Areas

Identified in the State Self-Assessment:

1. Funding and staff limitations
2. Concern about reporting requirements
3. Shortage of time to address the issues
4. Uncertainty about private sector compliance
5. Uncertainty about local government compliance
6. Lack of a central clearinghouse for Y2K issues
7. Lack of contingency planning and guidance on contingency planning