Making the Most of Your Visit

Today's Visit

- Attend an Information Session & Campus Walking Tour

Monday–Friday at 10am, 12pm, and 2pm or Saturday at 10am and 12pm

Our traditional program begins with an informative review of the application process and elements that make the University of Delaware a top national research institution. Visitors are then guided across one of “the most beautiful campuses on the East Coast” by a Blue Hen Ambassador, a current student selected for his or her knowledge and spirit.

- Beyond the Walking Tour

Once in your car, you have more options.

Head north to visit our newest residence halls—Independence Complex (named after our three signers of the Declaration)—on Laird Campus.

Head south to explore the College of Agriculture & Natural Resources, including a 350-acre working farm, UD Botanical Garden, and Fischer Greenhouse.

Just beyond the College is the University's David M. Nelson Athletic Complex, including two indoor ice skating rinks, the field house, football stadium, field hockey stadium, and basketball arena.

- Dine & Shop on Campus

The University of Delaware has two student centers—Trabant University Center (on Delaware and S. College Ave.) and Perkins Student Center (on Academy Street)—where you can enjoy an on-campus meal or buy some spirited UD gear. Go Blue Hens!

- Experience Main Street

A visit to the University of Delaware isn't complete without a stroll down Main Street where you'll find plenty of options for dining, shopping, and animated conversations over coffee.

- Take a Self-Guided Campus Tour

If a structured visit program isn't for you, why not explore campus on your own? The following is a tour of our most popular campus highlights. Numbers in () after each location correspond to the numbers on the reverse side of this map.

From the Visitors Center (162), head north on South College Avenue.

On your left, you will pass the Center for Black Culture (49) and the Center for International Studies (15).

At the intersection, turn left onto Kent Way. Both the President's House (127) and the Blue & Gold Club (40) are located at the end of Kent Way.

Cross over Orchard Street and pass through the gates to visit the Roselle Center for the Arts (137) and Amy du Pont Music Building (34). Take a seat on the circle and listen for the sounds of students performing or practicing nearby.

Next, head back to Orchard and turn left. At the intersection of Amstel & Orchard are Alfred Lerner Hall (25) and Purnell Hall (129), home to the Lerner College of Business and Economics.

Enter Purnell Hall and turn left past the stairs to view the Excelon Trading Center. Fewer than 5% of business schools in the U.S. possess a facility such as this.

Exit Purnell, cross the courtyard, pass the fountain, and emerge at South College Avenue where you will continue north (left).

Cross Delaware Avenue and enter Trabant University Center (158), home to 250+ student organizations, a popular food court, the student-run Vita Nova fine dining establishment, and more.

Memorial Hall

Continue through Trabant, cross over Main Street, and head north on College Avenue. Up ahead on your left is McDowell Hall (109), home to the College of Health Sciences. Enter, and if possible, peek into one of our Clinical Simulation Labs.

Back on College Avenue, cross over to Mechanical Hall (112), home of the Paul R. Jones Collection and site of many University exhibits. Just beyond Mechanical is the Carpenter Sports Building (47) which boasts basketball courts, swimming pools, a student fitness facility, rock-climbing wall, racquetball courts, and more.

Next, cross Main Street and proceed down The Green, lined with residence halls and academic buildings. Of particular note are Du Pont Hall (66), home of Engineering, Gore Hall (81), an architecturally impressive classroom building, Memorial Hall (112), site of the English Department, Brown Lab (45), containing laboratory space for research and teaching in the sciences, and Morris Library (114), one of the largest libraries in North America.

Morris Library

From the Library, cross the Green and Academy Street to Perkins Student Center (125) for a trip to the University Bookstore and a treat at the Scrounge.

Then, retrace your steps across Academy and The Green toward the Library. Continue past Morris Library, cross Mentors' Circle (honoring faculty who have impacted our students' lives) and College Avenue. Turn left to return to the University Visitors Center.

- Explore the Cultural Riches of Delaware

Many know of Delaware's glittering beaches to the south, but we are equally as proud of our cultural riches to the north, both in-state and in neighboring states. The area surrounding the University of Delaware abounds in museums and cultural attractions, including Winterthur, downtown Wilmington's Riverfront Park and restored Grand Opera House, Old New Castle, and nearby Pennsylvania's Longwood Gardens.
