

GLOBALIZATION, ORGANIZED CRIME & TERRORIST NETWORKS

SPRING 2015 LECTURE SERIES
ARSC 300 ISSUES IN GLOBAL STUDIES

TUESDAYS*
12:30-1:20

109 SHARP LAB

LECTURES ARE FREE & OPEN TO THE PUBLIC

*Times & locations of events with outside speakers will vary

The Center for Global and Area Studies is pleased to announce its Spring 2015 Lecture Series. Globalization has brought many benefits: it enhances the flow of goods and ideas between countries, while advances in global communication encourage mutual understanding. However, these same conditions have also led to increased cooperation and sophistication among groups connected to terrorism and transnational crime. This lecture series will examine diverse manifestations of organized crime and terrorism around the globe from a multidisciplinary perspective.

This one-credit class (ARSC300-010) can be taken as Standard Grading or Pass/Fail. Please direct your inquiries to Prof. Cynthia Schmidt-Cruz (csc@udel.edu).

FEB
10

CYNTHIA SCHMIDT-CRUZ | Foreign Languages & Literatures, Latin American & Iberian Studies
Course Introduction; Organized Crime, Terrorism, and Official Complicity in Argentine Crime Fiction

MAR
24

SPECIAL LECTURE: 5 PM in TRABANT THEATER
QIU XIAOLONG | Crime novelist and creator of the Inspector Chen mystery series
Inspector Chen in a Global Age

FEB
17

MARK J. MILLER | Political Science, European Studies
Connecting Human Trafficking and Terrorism

APR
7

WUNYABARI MALOBA | History, African Studies
Child Soldiers in Africa

FEB
24

POLLY ZAVADIVKER | History, Jewish Studies
The Munich Massacre of 1972 and the Development of Global Counterterrorism

APR
14

DARRYL FLAHERTY | History, Asian Studies
Gangs and Smuggling in the Shadows of Empire: The Okinawan Black Market and the US Occupation

MAR
3

PERSEPHONE BRAHAM | Foreign Languages & Literatures, Latin American & Iberian Studies
Mass Murder and Mexico's Tabloid Press

MONDAY
APR
20

SPECIAL LECTURE: TIME & LOCATION TBA
Amara Lakhous | Algerian-Italian Crime Novelist
Diversity and Suspicion in a Global World

MAR
10

PHILLIP PENIX-TADSEN | Foreign Languages & Literatures, Latin American & Iberian Studies
The Cultural Impact of the Drug War in Latin America

MONDAY
APR
27

SPECIAL EVENT: 7 PM in MITCHELL HALL
JUAN COLE | University of Michigan
BASSAM HADDAD | George Mason University
The Middle East in Crisis: Causes and Prospects

MAR
17

GIORGIO MELLONI | Foreign Languages & Literatures, European Studies
Terrorism and Organized Crime in Italian Film: From Three Brothers to Gomorra

MAY
5

JIANGUO CHEN | Foreign Languages & Literatures, Asian Studies
Politics and Aesthetics of Detective Fiction in a Socialist Country

This one-credit course satisfies a core requirement for the Global Studies minor. Visit our website for more information:

www.cas.udel.edu/cgas

The Center for Global and Area Studies, the College of Arts and Sciences' hub for world scholarship and engagement, supports academic programs in African, Asian, European, Islamic, Jewish, Latin American & Iberian, and Global Studies. CGAS also organizes lectures and events in global and area studies, develops related majors and minors, and awards research grants to faculty whose work contributes to our knowledge of the world.

CGAS
CENTER FOR GLOBAL AND AREA STUDIES
ENGAGING THE WORLD

Dare to be first.

UNIVERSITY OF DELAWARE